Lindbergh Sees Clamp On Liberty

Administration Curb on Free Speech Soon May Come; Says U. S. Heritage Lost

'Chooses' Bridges

Wheeler Asks Why F. D. R. Doesn't Take Bridges Into Cabinet

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 4 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh contends that the administration soon may move to "prevent freedom of speech among us."

He so maintained last night and also declared:

"We are approaching a point where we are no longer governed by the will of the people. We are, in fact, governed by one man who has consistently evaded the checks and balances on which representative government depends—a man who is drawing more and more dictatorial power into his own hands. We must face the fact that you and I and our generation have lost our American heritage."

Lindbergh in his first appearance on the rostrum since his controversial Des Moines speech, spoke before a capacity crowd in the Gospel Temple. Members of the audience were admitted only by tickets distributed by the sponsoring Ft. Wayne Chapter of the America First Committee and numbered between 3,500 and 3,800, Chief of Police Jule Stumpf estimated.

Ovation Are Given

They accorded the speaker standing ovations at the start and finish of his remarks and interrupted frequently with applause.

Stating that "it may be my last address," Lindbergh said: "How much longer free speech will be possible in the United States I do not know. But I do know that an administration which can throw this country into undeclared naval war against the will of the people, and without the consent of Congress can by similar methods prevent freedom of speech among us. There are many signs that such action may be taken in the near future."

Lindbergh, who charged in Des Moines that the "British, the Jewish and the Roosevelt administration" were among groups "pressing" the United States toward war, told the audience in the non-sectarian temple:

"I am moved by no personal interest of animosity. I do not speak out of hate for any individuals or any people. But neither have I tried to avoid facts in order to have my speeches politically popular."

"I have told you the truth as I saw it," he stated concerning his speech making, "and I do not know of a single statement I have made that has been proven false. What I said has been distorted, sentences have been removed from their context motives and meanings have been falsely ascribed but the original record is there and on that I stand."

Lindbergh said "if the time comes which we can no longer meet face to face as free men, we will meet together at the election next year." He elaborated:

"But what if there are no elections next year? The time has come when we must consider even that. Such a condition may not be many steps ahead on the road our President is taking us."

Suggests Bridges For Cabinet

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 4 (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) advised President Roosevelt to "take Harry Bridges back to Washington and put him in his cabinet," explaining that "that was just sarcasm aimed at the inconsistency of the Russian policy of our nation's leaders."

Apple Growers, Buyers Discuss Marketing

A regional meeting of apple growers and buyers from the Hudson Valley was held at the Governor Clinton Hotel last evening in an effort to reach a better price for the fruit grown in the area. Among those in attendance were left to right, seated, Thomas O'Neill of the New York and New England Apple Institute; H. E. Van Winkle of Stone Ridge; Theodore Oxholm of Esopus; and E. Stewart Hubbard of Poughkeepsie. Standing in the same order are Albert Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau; Earl French, of New York city, marketing director of the Atlantic Commission Co.; E. W. Sanderson of Schenectady, representing the Empire Markets and the Schaeffer Stores; and K. L. Chapell, of the Germantown Cold Storage Co.

Columbia Official Tells Percentage Of Men Deferred

Lake Mohonk Conference of College Officials Is Held; Bard Students Not Included

Lake Mohonk, Oct. 4 (Special)—Columbia University officials have certified 28 per cent of 807 student requests for occupational deferment from military conscription, Edward J. Grant, registrar of the university, reported here last night at the annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York.

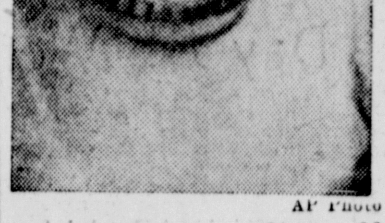

Mr. Grant said that of those students recommended for deferment, practically all studying in the "specialized professional fields" listed by the Office of Production Management were placed in Class 2A by their local draft boards. Deferment was granted to about 50 per cent of those studying in other fields, he added. Requests for deferment were considered by a sub-committee of the University Committee on National Defense.

"From early in May to the middle of September, exclusive of those at the Medical Center, which are handled by the Dean, and exclusive of those at Teachers' College, College of Pharmacy, Bard College and the School of Social Work, the sub-committee has had under consideration 807 cases for certification to local boards," Mr. Grant explained.

"Of these, 227 have been recommended for occupational deferment, or 28 per cent. In the non-professional graduate faculties, which include the widest variety of fields, out of 315 cases considered 95, or 30 per cent, were recommended."

"The sub-committee does not confine its recommendations solely to the 'specialized professional' (Continued on Page Nine)

Apple Growers Set Up Committee to Push Valley Fruit

Hudson Valley apple growers and storage men, conferring with representatives for large retail outlets last night took the first steps toward setting up a co-ordinating agency between supply and demand in an effort to stabilize prices and assure a steady demand for valley fruit.

Discussion at the meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel pointed to the lack of organized selling and the lack of any direct coordination between the growers and the needs of chain stores and other large merchandising units. Theodore Oxholm of Esopus, chairman of the meeting, pointed out that though chains maintain buying agencies within the district, many growers were selling to truckers who turned around and sold to the chains, taking a middleman's profit that might go to the grower.

Thomas A. O'Neill, executive secretary of the New York-New England Apple Institute, reviewed some of the work his organization has been doing in promoting apples and declared there is "a growing tendency for better understanding of merchandising problems. Growers seem to be coming to the realization that a steady flow of fruit to retail outlets is more effective for profit than holding for a rise in the market."

French Is Speaker

One purpose of the meeting was to gain a better understanding of the merchandisers' needs and Mr. Oxholm called upon Earl R. French, marketing director for the Atlantic Commission Company, produce-buying affiliate of the A. & P. Tea Company, an agency that has been active in this year's valley apple deal. "Proper merchandising requires assurance of a constant supply of fruit," he said. "When a retailer starts pushing a certain type of apple, he creates a consumer demand. But if he is unable to get the same type and grade of apple to supply that demand, he has to switch to something else."

He cited an instance that occurred last year. One retailer built up through advertising and promotion, a good demand for McIntosh when his growers suddenly decided to hold for a higher market. The retailer to meet the demand, was forced to buy western apples. When the local growers were ready to sell later in the season, the retailer told them that his customers were now demanding the western-grown fruit.

E. W. Sanderson of the Empire Markets and Schaeffer Stores of Schenectady, told the apple men that his company needed information about the apple supply and the availability of the varieties his stores were featuring.

"For both of us, grower and retailer alike, there is a need for a closer tieup—if only to furnish information as to where the fruit can be bought."

W. D. Lang of Grand Union Stores also said his company could use specific, reliable information about sources of supply.

Hitler's Speech Is Analysis of Reich Mind in Warfare

Leader Attempts to Answer Questions People Are Asking Each Other; Blames Churchill

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT (Freeman Special News Service)

Adolf Hitler's "winter help" speech was in one respect a most revealing pronouncement. The studied phrases laid bare an evaluation of the German state of mind after two years of war by the man who most of all needs to know it.

In the speech the Fuehrer has undertaken to answer the questions which Germans are asking each other. The spoken questions have not come out of Germany, but within the Reich, they must be a thunder of whispers. It is possible to go through the speech and list the questions by reading the very answers.

Here are some notable examples:

The question: "Why did we go to war?" the answer (repeated again and again by Hitler): "I did not want it, but Churchill did."

The question: "Why did we have to fight Russia? Why didn't we finish first with England?" The answer: "In August and September of last year (the months in which the R.A.F. saved England) I found out that I would have to use my whole air force to beat England; I could not do it because Russia stood at my back, ready to stab me at such a moment."

Would Have Lost Surprise

The question: "Why did you not tell us that Russia was not our friend and ally?" The answer: "Any hint would have cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of soldiers. I would have lost the element of surprise."

The question: "Why has the (Continued on Page 14)

Russians Make Heavy Attacks From Crimea to Leningrad

Germans Bomb Former Czarist Capital; R.A.F. Pounds Nazi-Held Points in Europe

(By The Associated Press)

Big-scale Russian counterattacks in defense of the Crimea and heavy fighting along a line now running almost straight from that Black Sea peninsula to Leningrad were described today in dispatches on the Russian-German war.

The Germans reported new overnight bombings of Leningrad and Moscow, while the British raided Rotterdam, Antwerp and Dunkerque. The Germans admitted the Rotterdam raid was a heavy one and that 60 persons were killed and 300 wounded.

In the battle of the Atlantic, the Germans announced sinking of four "enemy" merchantmen, including a large tanker, but did not specify whether this might refer to the American-owned I. C. White, whose torpedoing east of Brazil with possible loss of 16 men was disclosed late yesterday.

Although the German high command merely reported extensive operations in progress on the eastern front, dispatches from the belligerent capitals indicated the Nazi thrust towards the industrialized Donets Basin in southern Russia apparently was the main danger to the Soviet.

London Reports Fighting From authoritative sources in London, however, came word that the Russian forces were driving from Melitopol in the Crimea in a determined offensive to save the Crimean peninsula which is vital to control of the Black Sea.

These sources acknowledged that farther north, in the area immediately east of captured Kiev, organized Russian resistance had ended, but said farther east Red army resistance continued "stubbornly and effectively."

There was little change around Odessa in the south, Leningrad in the North or in the central sector, it was said, and the general straightening of the lines eliminates danger of Russian forces being encircled.

Berlin reports said the Germans seemed to be turning their mightiest pressure upon the Donets and the manufacturing city of Kharkov. They added that the German assaults were colliding with counter-attacking Russian tanks and armored trains.

The Russians reported there was fighting along the entire front, and said the Germans were suffering heavy material losses in the south.

Moscow said marine parachutists were harassing the besiegers of Odessa, on the Black Sea, joining forces with the guerrillas of that district.

The Russian early-morning communiqué also told of the sinking of a German submarine by Red warships in northern waters.

The British said their warplanes struck at docks at Rotterdam, Antwerp and Dunkerque during the night while Hurricane fighters strafed German airdromes in occupied France, German aerial activity over Britain was light.

The Japanese, meanwhile, began grand maneuvers in French Indo-China, with sufficient troops, it was reported, for a full-dress campaign. Just how many men were involved was not revealed by the censor.

Many observers in Saigon French Indo-China, expressed belief the anticipated zero hour for released uninjured in a woods near here after spending most of the day in concealment with the three men and the woman.

Landis Promises Third Game Of Series Will Be Played

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 4 (AP)—They peeled the protecting canvas off the Dodgers' home field this morning, the sun came on like a searchlight a few moments later, and it looked very much like the world series between the Flatbushers and the Yankees, their arch antagonists from across the East river, would be resumed after a day's lapse.

The sun's appearance evoked the first real cheer in two days from several hundred fans who stood outside with dogged perseverance, waiting for the bleacher gates to open. The infield still looked moist, but in fair playing condition, and barring a further downpour there was little doubt the third battle of the series would start promptly at 1:30 p. m. E. S. T. Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis put in a surprise appearance at the park at 10:30, shielded his eyes from the sun and announced officially that the game was on, barring further rain.

By this time the field had been marked off, the bleachers were half-filled and there scarcely was a cloud in the Brooklyn heavens.

Hempstead Woman Is Hurt Seriously At Shultis' Corners

Truck, Car Collide Friday at Road Junction; 3 Persons Are Given Medical Care

Miss Anna Peck, 75, of Hempstead, L. I., was in a serious condition at the Kingston Hospital today as a result of injuries suffered Friday in a collision between a car in which she was riding and a truck. The accident took place at the junction of the Woodstock-Saugerties road and the High Woods-Woodstock road at Shultis' Corners.

Suffering from concussion of the brain, a fractured leg and contusions and lacerations, her condition was considered serious from the time she was brought to the Kingston Hospital by the Dargan Ambulance Service.

A car operated by Albert A. Smith of Hempstead, in which Miss Peck and Mrs. Smith were riding was proceeding from the direction of High Woods toward Woodstock and according to state police, was entering the Woodstock-Saugerties road when a truck operated toward Woodstock by Edward Fairbairn of Dunraven came along. Mr. and Mrs. William Ackery of Dunraven were riding with Fairbairn.

Sign Ignored Apparently

Sergeant James J. Cunningham, Troopers Walter Keefe, and O'Brien and Trooper Arthur Reilly of the B. C. I. made an investigation and Sergeant Cunningham reported that the Smith car apparently had failed to observe the full stop sign at the intersection.

Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties, Dr. Hans J. Cohn of Woodstock, were summoned and treated the injured at the scene and Miss Peck was brought to the Kingston Hospital and placed under the care of Dr. D. S. Meyers.

There were no arrest. Smith was injured about the back, chest and legs and suffered from shock while his wife was injured about the back. Mrs. Ackery had injuries to her knees. Mr. Ackery and Mr. Fairbairn escaped injury. The Smith car was damaged badly but the truck received but slight damage about the front.

Berlin Denies Ban

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Berlin radio was quoted by CBS today as announcing that "the world famous radio commentator, Lord Hawhaw, has been banned from the air" but a checkup among Berlin authorities brought only a denial and announcement that the broadcaster could be heard as usual. His next broadcast, they said, would be today at 7:30 p. m. Berlin time—12:30 p. m., E. S. T.

35 Seamen On Vessel Are Saved

American-Owned Ship, Flying Panama Flag, Was Operating in Anglo Service

All Are Americans

Standard Oil Reports Crew Is Comprised of U. S. Seamen

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull today vigorously denounced the action of a submarine in sinking the American-owned oil tanker I. C. White in the South Atlantic.

The secretary made the unusual gesture of permitting correspondents to quote him in declaring that sinking of the oil tanker "seems to be another act of lawlessness, piracy, and attempted frightfulness in connection with the general movement to drive people off the Atlantic Ocean, which is part of the world movement of conquest."

Hull added, in reply to questions, that regardless of the flag the I. C. White was flying or whether it was in a convoy, every nation had the inherent right of self-defense in meeting attacks which he described as part of an attempted conquest of the earth.

In such unusual circumstances, he said, abstractions of international law must be construed and dealt with in the light of self-defense.

Consulate Tells Of Rescue

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 4 (AP)—Thirty-five Americans of the crew of the American-owned tanker I. C. White have been rescued and four are missing after the torpedoing of that vessel in the south Atlantic, the United States consulate here announced today.

Sinking of the 7,052-ton tanker, which flew the flag of Panama and was operating in British service, was disclosed late yesterday when the American freighter West Nilus reported she had picked up 18 men 450 miles east of Recife, Brazil.

Today the American freighter D. Norte informed the consulate she had picked up 17 more men at latitude 10:16 south, longitude 35:23 west, which is only about 30 miles off Macao, Brazil, a port 100 miles south of Recife.

These included the captain, the third mate, chief engineer, first and third assistant engineers, and radio operator, the Delnorte reported, quoting the captain as saying four others were missing and were possibly still on a raft.

This indicated a total crew of 39. Previous reports had said either 37 or 34 men were aboard the I. C. White.

The I. C. White was captained by William Mello of Everett, Mass.

Scene of the torpedoing and circumstances surrounding it remained undisclosed. The West Nilus message said it occurred last Saturday.

Apparently Captain Mello and his boatload of men had sailed or rowed some distance, almost to safe haven on the Brazilian coast.

Announcement of the second rescue followed an unconfirmed report that the American freighter Mormacrey had picked up some of the men, but which proved false when the Mormacrey arrived here today.

Capital Is Told Of Sinking

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—Word of the latest torpedo-sinking of an American-owned vessel—a week ago today in the south Atlantic—reached the capital as administration leaders were trying to make sure of enough congressional votes to give President Roosevelt whatever he wants in the way of amendments to the neutrality act. The torpedoed vessel, eighth (Continued on Page Three)

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Some Kick!

Pottstown, Pa.—A youngster kicked a football into the air and this is what happened:
The ball struck a 110-volt electric line feeding the home of Andrew Potpinski.
The wire was torn down, sparks flashing in all directions. The Potpinski home with without lights.
A woman saw the sparks, turned in an alarm. Two fire trucks and an ambulance hurried to the scene along with 500 spectators.

Parade!

Gloversville, N. Y.—A partridge flew into Leon E. Lito's living room through a window.
It was all right with Lito except (1) the window was closed, (2) the partridge was out of season, and (3) it escaped through the broken pane anyway.

Quality? Phooey

Albany, N. Y.—Quantity, not quality, was what the obviously well-muscled burglars wanted when they broke into an Albany plant.
The loot: Steel plates and cinder building blocks weighing 1,032 pounds.
The value: $35.74.

Red, White and Blue Piggies

Elmira, N. Y.—Now come the patriotic porkers.
Farmer John Gunderman is exhibiting the offspring of a white sow and a black sire. Four are red, three are white and three are blue.

It's an Ill Wind

Collins, N. Y.—Peaches growing on a "wildcat" tree in Jack Cheplo's orchard average 10 ounces in weight and are nearly as large as grapefruit. The tree grew from one blown down in a wind storm and its fruit ripens late.

Exchange of Prisoners

Exchange of prisoners, a custom in abeyance for the past 75 years, has been revived in the present European war. Thousands of prisoners were swapped last year between countries involved in war, of which more than 10,000 were exchanged between Finland and Russia, and hundreds were civil prisoners traded between Britain, France and Germany. Such exchanges developed from medieval custom of holding captives for ransom. Among ancient nations, prisoners of war not tortured and killed were usually enslaved. Civilized nations first began to exchange their prisoners about the Thirteenth century. Exchanges were carried on throughout the American Revolution, in the War of 1812 and the Mexican war.

Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Besides her husband the deceased is survived by a daughter, Florence M., of this city; two brothers, John and William, of Nottingham, England. She was the mother of the late Harold Johnson.

Mrs. Mary Howard Hammond, widow of Thomas Hammond and mother of the late John Hammond, died Friday at her home in Brooklyn. Mrs. Hammond was a former resident of this city, residing in the downtown section of the city. She is survived by four grandchildren. Funeral will be held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock with a high Mass of requiem at the Church of All Saints Church in Brooklyn. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, this city. The funeral cortege will arrive here about 12 o'clock noon Monday.

Edwin L. Merritt, well known real estate operator, died suddenly at his home, 180 Albany avenue, on Friday night. Mr. Merritt had been injured in an automobile accident in July and had been under a physician's care ever since. Mr. Merritt was born in Kingston and had spent his entire life in this city. He was formerly engaged in the printing business, but for the past quarter century had been engaged in the real estate business with offices in his home. Mr. Merritt was a former past exalted ruler of the Kingston Lodge of Elks. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Daisy A. Merritt and one cousin, Margaret Mould of Niagara Falls. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning before a gathering of relatives and friends that filled the Kingston Holy Name to near capacity, the Rev. Charles J. McCabe offered a high Mass of requiem for the repose of the soul of Ann Elaine Noble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Noble of 19 Davis street, who died last Wednesday morning. The music was under the direction of Miss Adelaide McNamee, organist, and Miss Ann Reilly was the soloist. At the offertory she sang "Ave Maria" and at the conclusion of the Mass, "My God, My Father, While I stray." While the casket rested in the late home surrounded by a beautiful display of fall flowers, hundreds of people visited the home. Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the entire membership of the Artemis Sorority of New Paltz Normal School to which Miss Noble belonged, came to the home and held a short service in her memory. The Rev. Charles J. McCabe led the relatives and friends in the recitation of the Rosary when he called Friday evening. A large number of Mass cards in the form of spiritual bouquets, were placed near the casket. The bearers were Leo Giroux, Townsend Rifenbary, John Scully, Philip Reilly, John Noble and Martin Hovan. The burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where the Rev. Father McCabe gave the final absolution as the body was lowered to its final resting place.

Tanker Torpedoed
35 Men Rescued

American-owned merchantman sunk since the start of the war, was the 7,052-ton tanker I. C. White, en route from Curacao to Capetown, South Africa, in command of William Mello of Everett, Mass.

News of her sinking came in a message yesterday from the American freighter West Nilus, telling that she had picked up 18 survivors from a lifeboat 450 miles off Recife, Brazil. Further details were awaited when the West Nilus docks at Recife.

Hope was held that others of the crew of 37 had been saved. An unconfirmed report received by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) related that the Moore-McCormack Line freighter, Mormacree, due soon at Rio de Janeiro, had rescued 16 men from the I. C. White.

Should both counts of the rescued prove correct, three members of the ship's company would remain missing. Standard Oil said it understood all members of the crew were Americans. Although the I. C. White was owned by a subsidiary of Standard Oil, early in the war it was transferred to Panamanian registry. The ship later was placed at the disposal of Great Britain, under the lend-lease program, and at the time of the sinking was operating under British orders.

Crewmen Abandon Ship
Despite the neutrality law, which bars Americans from sailing on ships of belligerents and from sailing into combat zones, United States crewmen were allowed to work on the I. C. White, since it was registered in Panama and was traveling outside the combat zones proclaimed by President Roosevelt. Until the survivors could be interviewed, there was no certain knowledge whether the torpedo was loosed by a submarine or surface raider, or even the exact location of the attack. If the ship went down near where the survivors were picked up, it would be slightly west of the spot where the American flag freighter Robin Moor was torpedoed May 21. If so, the attack would be the nearest to American shores yet reported.

There was some speculation here that the Axis might be trying to draw United States patrol ships southward out of the North Atlantic, where they are protecting Britain's supply line to this country.

The White House, state department and the navy had no official comment on the sinking, but it evoked the usual divided sentiment among members of Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt has made it clear that he will ask Congress for some amendments to the neutrality act, but he was not expected to declare exactly what changes he desired until a conference Tuesday with Republican and Democratic leaders of the Senate. He has announced already that he favors arming American merchant ships.

He made it clear, too, at his press conference yesterday that he would not take this step without approval of Congress. Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) had suggested that the President might order the installation of such arms by revoking the proclamation under which he put the neutrality law into effect in 1939.

Exercises Soon Reduce Noticeably Thick Legs

Un-used Muscles Cause Bulges
Men notice your legs, even when they don't seem to! So be realistic and DO something about those heavy calves, those fatty pads around the knees!

You can, in a surprisingly short time, by doing leg exercises. Legs and hips and tummy, too—get large and out of shape when the muscles are inactive. Even when you're active you may not be using the muscles that special exercises like this can get at:

1—Extend left arm and step forward on right foot, bending both knees and taking as long a stride as possible. 2—Extend right arm and step forward on left foot. Continue for 18 to 20 steps. You not only reduce your calf measurements in this way but you reduce your "age." Slim contours make you look 10 years younger!

Start a "youthifying" exercise routine today! Our 32-page booklet has exercises to give you slimmer waistline, hips, thighs, legs, bust, posture. Also has a general routine; exercises for constipation, aching feet, nerves. Send 10c in coin for your copy of "Best Exercises for Health and Beauty" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and name of booklet.

GRANGE NEWS

Highland Grange

Booster Night proved a social success at Highland Grange Tuesday evening with about 40 persons attending. Albert Shaw had arranged a radio program which opened with Miss Margery Shaw singing "You Are My Sunshine."

There was a reading, "The Housewife's Prayer," Mrs. Harvey Craig; a talk by Howard Mackey; reading of the Diamond Jubilee message to all Grangers from the national master. This was read by Albert Shaw. Group songs were sung and a playlet, "Aunt Jane's Accident," was given with the following taking part: Howard Mackey, Mrs. Mabel Schneider, Earl Kisor, Mrs. Harvey Craig, Miss Margery Shaw. Mrs. Schneider gave a monologue. The sale of fruit, vegetables and flowers netted about $19.50 for the treasury. After the program pinchols and dominoes were played. Refreshments were served.

Morgenthau Is Nonchalant As Plane Skims Trees
New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., takes things right in stride—even a near crashup in an airplane.

Enroute to his Fishkill, N. Y., home in a coastguard airplane yesterday, Morgenthau calmly continued to read as the plane, plunging through a pea soup fog in an attempt to land at New Hackensack, N. Y., scraped tops of trees and then zoomed upward in a hasty fight for altitude.

At Philadelphia, where the plane finally landed, Morgenthau spoke words of praise for the pilot, Lieut. William Sinton, and then took a transport plane for New York and a week-end in the country.

Warning Is Given

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—A warning that "inflationary tendencies" had already appeared in prices of some commodities was sounded today in a survey by government economists. "This is a time when only the uninformed are 'positive' about anything concerning prices," the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said in forecasting that the "general level of prices" was expected to advance during the next 12 months.

The warning was included in a survey of economic conditions made for the benefit of the cotton industry and cotton farmers.

Work Under Way
Highland, Oct. 4—Max Gruner, superintendent of the highways in the town of Lloyd, expects to complete Washington street by November 1. At present the new curb and a retaining wall is being laid on the avenue. The latter is necessary since it is a dead-end street. Upon the completion of that avenue work on Tillson avenue will be begun. This will be made 24 feet wide with curbs and sidewalks laid. The old water pipes will be taken up and new eight-inch pipes laid. The old ones were six-inch pipes. There will also be 800 feet of new sewer lines laid on the east end of the street. Storm sewers and a catch basin will be put in. Where the street enters Vineyard avenue over a bridge crossing Twaitskill brook, the bridge will be widened to remove the sharp turn. This will be a project during the winter.

WOODSTOCK
Woodstock, Oct. 3—The winter schedule is now in effect at the Woodstock Post Office and the office is now closing at 6 p. m. Hereafter the lobby was open during the evening.

Workmen are engaged in repairing the lower Byrdcliffe road. The work has been under way for some time and is nearing completion.

It is predicted that some changes will be made in the adjustment of the primary and secondary school grades at the public school. The matter is at present being considered by the school board, who will probably come to a decision within a short time.

Mrs. Lethbridge was in town a few days ago to close her antique shop for the winter.

Encouraging Farmers to Put Cash in Reserve

Special inducements to encourage farmers to put some of their cash in reserve to meet future payments on their mortgages, especially in seasons when cash is less plentiful, have been announced by the Springfield (Mass.) land bank, according to C. C. DuMont of Ulster Park, secretary of the Ulster National farm loan association. The association is a local unit of the land bank system which has 350 mortgage loans in Ulster county, all of them bearing semi-annual installments.

"Now that farmers have a little more cash, they are being encouraged to use some of it to avoid the dangers of default in times of emergency," Mr. DuMont explained. "Cash deposited with the land bank in a 'future payment fund' will draw interest at the same rate that the individual farmers pay on their mortgages."

"It is just as desirable for farmers to store up their income to tide themselves over periods of low prices or emergencies as it is to store up their crops during the summer to carry themselves and their families during the winter," he declared.

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Skies cleared for the world series today but in the stock market, with the exception of brightening rails and specialties, clouds generally continued to obscure the direction.

The list exhibited fairly steady tendencies at the start. Dealings, active for a while, slowed. Livelihood of a number of low-priced issues again helped the aggregate and transfers for the two hours were around 250,000 shares.

While there were scattered gainers of a point or so at the close, with several favorites edging into new high ground for the year, minor variations were the rule. Numerous stocks were unchanged and minus signs were plentiful when the final gong sounded.

Better share performers included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Nickel Plate Preferred, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Phelps Dodge, Texas Corp., J. C. Penney and Glenn Martin.

These Women!

To the Met, Via Reykjavik And Winnipeg

By ADELAIDE KERR

BECAUSE Germany occupied Denmark, Maria Markan, a prima donna from Iceland, will sing at the Metropolitan Opera House this winter.

In 1940 the deep-bosomed, blue-eyed, lyric dramatic soprano who had sung much in Scandinavia was on concert tour in Australia, a return ticket to Copenhagen in her pocket.

Clicked On First Trial
"Then Hitler occupied Denmark and changed all my plans," she told me. "I didn't want to go back to Denmark, so I went to Canada, and sang in Vancouver and Winnipeg. Everybody said I should try for the Metropolitan. I thought it was no use. But I came to New York, asked for an audition, got it—and a contract."

"What people lived in these long abandoned pit houses? What became of them? Did they die out, leaving no descendants? Did they migrate and merge with other Indians whose modern descendants carry a strain of the ancient Mogollon blood? Or did other Indians move in and intermarry with the people of the Su village? No one yet knows the answer to these problems. However, some light may be thrown in this Mogollon race by the study of the skeletons which we have discovered."

Spots 430,000 Miles Long
Developing on the Sun

LOS ANGELES—A great procession of sun spots which filled half the Equatorial Belt is developing along the earthward side of the sun, Dismore Alter, director of Griffith observatory, reported. Dr. Alter estimated that the array was 430,000 miles long.

At Mount Wilson observatory the spots were described as an unusual outbreak for this time in the solar cycle.

Scientists said that this cycle of 11 1/2 years showed spots developing and waning in a regular schedule. "The maximum of the sun spot period passed four years ago."

Sweden's fuel shortage has caused a reduction in the speed of many trains.

Rally Week Opens
At Baptist Church;
Vacation Reports

The First Baptist Church held its annual roll call and fellowship service Thursday evening in the church parlors with about 200 in attendance. The dinner was served by members of the Philanthropy Class, the Sunshine Class, and the World Wide Guild. The invocation was given by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole.

The speech of welcome was made by the Rev. H. Victor Kane of the First Baptist Church, who announced that this is Rally Week in the First Baptist Church and marks the beginning of the church year. He also paid tribute to the work done by the Men's Club under Harold B. Rich this past year in redecorating and repainting the church sanctuary.

The program continued with the introduction of the speaker of the evening, the Rev. Paul Swarthout, pastor of the Baptist Church at Hamilton, New York, and advisor to Baptist boys at Colgate University. The speaker chose as the theme of his address, "The glory of loyalty to the church and to Christ." He pointed out that there are four spheres of glory to which all Christians adhere in these times: "The glory of a winsome deep, clarity of spirit; the glory of the strength of an inexhaustible comfort in our Saviour; the glory of the kingdom of God and of righteousness, peace, and joy; and the glory of loyalty to the church and to Christ." His message was one of inspiration to all present.

The Rev. Mr. Kane then introduced members of the church who this summer joined "The Church by the Side of the Road Club." This purely theoretical club is composed of members of the church who visited interesting churches during their summer vacation and returned with valuable souvenirs and pleasant and profitable memories of their visits.

A number of the church members spoke briefly on their summer travels. Miss Lucy Healy told of an interesting outdoor service which she attended at Fayetteville, North Carolina, which had a large young people's choir. Miss Ethel Hull, of the Kingston High School faculty, visited Concord, N. H., and wandered into a Christian Science church service. She also attended the famous church St. Peter's by the Sea, Ogunquit, Me. Miss Anna Mae Decker also was an attendant recently at the church of St. Peter's by the Sea. She reported that in this church the collection was so large that the collection baskets had to be emptied and returned to the congregation for another filling.

Miss Decker also attended churches in New Orleans which had historical backgrounds. She visited a church in Memphis, Tenn., which had an attendance of 2,400 in its Sunday School, and a choir of 150 young people. Another report on the "Church by the Side of the Road Club" was given by Lloyd LeFever, who visited the oldest Indian church in the United States located on Cape Cod. Mrs. Mary Pratt concluded the reports by telling of a small church which she visited in New Jersey, which had instituted a novel and interesting method of serving church suppers. The Rev. Mr. Kane then presented Miss Decker with an award for having given the most interesting report on the club, although all the reports were interesting.

The Rev. Mr. Kane then spoke on the World Emergency Fund of the Baptist denomination. The evening was concluded with picture slides of the Baptist Church School Advance. The picture machine showing colored slides was operated by Sherwood Lasher, while the Rev. Mr. Kane did the narrating.

Krom-Burnett
Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burnett of Connelly announce the marriage of their daughter, Edna Mae, to Irving Richard Krom of 57 Stephen street. The wedding took place September 26. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sahler, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

Krom-Lewis
Ellenville, Oct. 4—Miss Doris Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Lewis, and Richard Krom, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Krom, both of Ellenville, were married Saturday evening, September 27, at the Reformed Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lloyd W. Bell, pastor of the church.

The bride wore a dress of soldier blue velvet with wine colored accessories and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. Her maid of honor, Mrs. Arthur Lewis, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a navy blue gown with soldier blue accessories and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Thomas Rosakranse was the bridegroom's best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for members of the families and a few intimate friends. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Krom will make their home in Ellenville.

Tri-M Club Makes Plans
The Tri-M Club of the First Reformed Church met last evening at the church house with 22 members in attendance. Important business regarding project work for the year was discussed with tentative plans made for an entertainment to be given the third week of January. The hay ride scheduled for Tuesday evening, October 7, has been postponed. The next meeting of the club will be November 7, which will be the first birthday celebration and colonial night at the home of Fred Johnston. This meeting will also feature another spaghetti supper prepared by the men of the club under the chairmanship of Russell Edwards.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Ellenville, Oct. 4—Mr. and Mrs. Felix Herling of Phillipsport celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, September 28, with a dinner for 50 relatives, including their five children and three of their five grandchildren.

The couple was married in Brooklyn, September 29, 1891. Mrs. Herling was the former Miss Louise LeTourneur of Montreal, Canada. They made their home in Brooklyn until 1911 when they moved to Phillipsport to the home which they still occupy.

Gorgeous bouquets of autumn flowers decorated the tables and Mr. and Mrs. Herling received many lovely gifts, cards and flowers. Among those attending were their three sons, Edward of Middletown, Robert and Oscar Herling; daughters, Mrs. Merlin Strait of Matamoras, Pa., Mrs. Warren Jackson of Bridgeport, Conn.; grandchildren, Miss Anita Herling, Robert Herling and Ward Adams of Matamoras, son of Mrs. Strait; Mrs. Mary Jane Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford LeTourneur, John LeTourneur and daughter, Lois, Schofield LeTourneur and children, Mrs. Katie Herling, Mrs. Philip Pfug of Brooklyn; Mrs. Walter Herling, Sr., Helen Herling, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herling, Jr., of Glendale, L. American Legion Auxiliary Installation of Officers

On Wednesday evening, October 1, a banquet and the installation of officers for the year took place at the American Legion Auxiliary meeting. The meeting was opened by advancing the colors, followed by a prayer given by the chaplain. After the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," there was 30 seconds of silence in tribute for departed heroes. This was followed by the preamble of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The annual report of the retiring president was given and listed 128 members for the 1940-41 year. Mrs. Raymond H. Wood conducted the installation service. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Ernest Jansen; vice-presidents, Mrs. Lynn Westsels and Mrs. Alfred Messinger; secretary and historian, Mrs. A. H. Hart; treasurer, Mrs. Lester E. Sanford; sergeant at arms, Mrs. John Waterman; chaplain, Mrs. Edward Luedtke.

Mrs. Sam Mann was presented with a past president pin at an impressive ceremony and corsages were presented to the new president, past president and installing officer. Following the banquet an entertainment was given.

Good Taste Today

Argumentative Guests Upset Every Hostess

Few situations are more upsetting to every well-bred hostess than having two guests, who hold positive views on opposite sides of a controversial subject get into a violent argument that no one can stop. Particularly is this behavior upsetting when the argument is not kept within the boundaries of good temper, and when the feelings of others present are to some degree involved.

As a matter of fact, there cannot be many of us today who do not hold emotionally strong partizan views on almost every headline in the news. Therefore, every tactful hostess has to keep on the alert to check the first rumblings which threaten to become volcanic.

One answer to a hostess whose friends, she says, are all hot-headed and all "agin' each other about something" is to advise doing as a neighbor of my own did. Make each one who mentions his own particularly inflaming subject put a dollar in her hospital collection box. That a dollar from every too violently anti or pro has had a curative effect is proved, so I am told by the gradually dwindling collections for the hospital! That first week, the box was stuffed full—now a whole month hasn't filled it. (Perhaps the news has gathered us all on one side. That might be it.)

Serving Potato Chips
Dear Mrs. Post: I've always thought potato chips could be taken with the fingers rather than with a serving spoon because, as everyone well knows, a spoon is really no good unless you lay a hand over it!

Answer: A "hand over" is gracious, not! The right rule is just as easy. You shove the spoon under the potato chips and hold them on with the fork. It's not hard to do—not at all!

A Printed Sympathy Card

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to send a printed sympathy card to someone newly bereaved—and shouldn't this be acknowledged?

Answer: Such cards are suitable for those who find writing notes difficult, and who perhaps have sensitive taste in choosing the right card for the right person. Such cards require the same answers that all other expressions of sympathy do. "Thanks for kind sympathy" is written across the top of the mourning-bordered visiting card of the person to whom the card was sent. This is the proper way to make an acknowledgement for almost every expression of sympathy.

Cleaning Glazed Chintz
Cleaning glazed chintz isn't the tiresome task it might appear to be, for it takes only a few minutes to spread out the fabric on a flat surface, sponge it quickly with lukewarm suds, and then rinse it with clear lukewarm water. Any pressing should be done on the wrong side with a lukewarm iron.

The American theme explodes into your kitchen with a red, white and blue table and chair set. The enameled metal table has a red stripe at each end, broken by a big circle of blue stars. Wooden chairs may be had with solid backs or with curved slats, both striped and starred in patriotic fashion.

Something a little different in end tables is one in mahogany, with fluted posts and metal grille-work at the ends.

Young Dress-and-Hat Ensemble

Marian Martin
PATTERN 9877

Match-mates are this smart frock and cap by Marian Martin! Designed for daytime dash, Pattern 9877 uses bright contrast for the cap, the tab collar, the scalloped hemline border, and the perky sash attached to the side bodice sections that emphasizes your tiny waist! For smoothly fitting lines, the front bodice sections curve down into the skirt and are slide-fastened at the center front to below the waist or use "loops-'n-buttons" instead! Of course the hem border is optional, also the long or short sleeves. You'll think up many variations of this clever style, using different fabric contrasts.

Pattern 9877 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Size 13, dress and cap, requires 2 yards 54 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast.

City Butchers Beef

When wholesale prices of beef jumped from 38 to 42 cents a pound overnight, meat dealers of the municipal market of Corrientes, went on strike and refused to sell the product. This caused a great decrease in meat consumption because the market supplies a third of the population. To relieve the situation city officials slaughtered cattle and sold direct to the public.

5-Cent Taxi Fare Hit

Organized taxi men in Havana, Cuba, have rallied to fight the plan of a group of chauffeurs to establish a five cent rate, without limitation of persons and distance. The plan is to carry as many persons as a car can seat for the five-cent fare, as was done for several months preceding the downfall of the Machado government in 1933.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 24 The Diamond

IT SEEMED the whole town was parading along Duval Street in a carnival mood. Some in costume, some in evening things, some in street clothes. A guitarist picked out the chords of a Spanish love song. Pam recognized the voice that caught the tune and carried it on. Then other voices joined. Eventually it was a full chorus rising on the night air.

Freda, clinging to Leo's arm as they stood under an awning, caught Jerry's arm and pushed something small and hard into his hand.

"Look, Jerry," she said, "this probably isn't the time for it, no dramatic setting or anything, but I'm making an honest woman of myself. I want you to have this! I'm beginning to have silly ideas like that occasionally. Don't ask me why!" Then she had turned back to Leo and was giving her entire interest to something he was saying.

Jerry looked at what he held in his hand. It caught the ray from a street lamp and gave out a beautiful radiance.

His diamond. The large and flawless one he had bought for Freda that day on Fifth Avenue, a day that seemed like only a dream as he tried to look back to it. He suspected why Freda had returned it. She knew of course that he wouldn't have money to give Pam anything as nice, anything at all, with his new theory of independence. He glanced after Freda's bright figure in her scarlet wrap, and his heart warmed. There was stuff in the girl after all, he thought. She was coming through as he intended to do. He slipped the ring into an inner pocket.

He wanted to give Pam a ring. But he'd wanted to get one for her, one that no one else had ever worn. Yet he knew it would probably be years before he could buy one as fine as the one Freda had just returned to him. He looked at Pam, wondering what to do. She was singing with the others. He bent swiftly and kissed the curl that had escaped from the flowered band that was holding her hair back.

In the moment that Pam smiled back at him Jerry Winthrop was aware that emotion does not remain static. He knew he had never loved her before as he did in that moment. And he knew just as surely what he felt for Pam was a progressive thing. It would grow and grow until it enveloped his whole life. He must, he thought, get her promise. He must. And before many more hours passed.

When Pam and Jerry got home at one o'clock Melita had a little supper ready for them.

"You mean your help would stay up to do this for you, and do it so pleasantly?" Jerry asked in surprise.

"Yes. And the lovely part is they do it without being asked. Melita's that way."

"Melita?" Jerry said gently. "Or is it you, Pam? Perhaps the service you get is a reflection of the treatment you give."

Lenore refused the invitation, but Bart and Adele were as gay and pleased as Jerry himself.

Juan and Melita loved the style Pam put on that day. It was like old times. There was tangelo punch first, served in tall glasses of fine crystal that had been in the family for years. Juan brought them in on the teakwood tray that had been brought from some far-off romantic place by an early Queller with an eye for beauty.

The Winthropes walked through the interesting old house, admiring things.

Mrs. Winthrop exclaimed over the polished mahogany table laid with a hand-embroidered luncheon set.

"And this beautiful work is yours, I'm sure?" she asked of the interesting colored designs on the heavy linen.

"Yes," Pam was smiling and flushing a little. "And that linen was once a pair of plus-fours that belonged to a very over-stuffed friend of Dad's!"

Mrs. Winthrop looked at Pam in admiration.

"What an ingenious girl you are," she said sincerely.

"You learn to be when you like nice things and you haven't much money," Pam laughed.

"It's a good thing to learn." Adele Winthrop's words came with a peculiar earnestness. She was thinking of Lenore and how badly she was adjusting to their new circumstances. The girl had made everything as difficult as she possibly could. Adele looked at Pam thoughtfully. There was such a difference between the two girls. After all, she thought, Jerry had been fortunate in finding Pam.

Pam had selected for her luncheon only typically local foods. There was fruit cup—wedges of orange, grapefruit, tangerine and banana—served in pale green glass. Conch chowder, which had been simmered until it was a perfect blend. Turtle steak which Melita had pounded until all of the water was out of it, and then cut in thin slices and fried to a tender, lovely brown.

Pam was sweet and gracious as a hostess and, as her guests left, she pinned a corsage of orchid tree flowers on Mrs. Winthrop's shoulder.

"That's very sweet of you, my dear," Adele said. It touched her that Pam could return so much friendly charm for their former indifference acceptance of her.

"And don't I rate something?" Mr. Winthrop asked gaily.

Pam took a button margolite from a vase in the living room and put it in his buttonhole with a great deal of pretty ceremony.

Her eyes were very bright as she did it and her heart seemed to miss a beat. For the flower reminded her of Jerry's first gift to her, French margolites packed in ice and planed down from Miami because they matched her eyes.

"You're not coming with us, Jerry?" Adele asked of her son who made no move to go.

"No, Adele," he said and Pam liked the easy camaraderie of it. Any young man who could be on those terms with his mother must be all right. "I've things to say to Pam."

Pam turned to him quickly after she had waved her last goodbye to his parents.

"Was I all right?" she asked eagerly.

Bad Ending

"YOU were, my dear," Jerry answered tenderly. His eyes rested on her in admiration. "I'm proud of you, Pam. There isn't another girl I know who could do as you're doing. I'm support you're so independent, and all that. But there's one thing that still puzzles me. Will you tell me about it now?"

"What?" Her eyes met his.

"That night of the party, Antoine's supper party, why did you run away from me?"

This would be the time to straighten that out, he thought, if Pam really had understood Algar Bruce and had been hurt.

Pam turned away and considered a moment. The old hurt of that night flooded back like a rising tide. It was still a thing that she hadn't forgiven. A sudden desire to hurt Jerry rose in her. She had been so hurt herself that night. She wished he hadn't spoken of it just after their lovely luncheon party. His question brought back sharply all of the bitter humiliation she had been trying to forget. A strange, intangible barrier seemed to rise between them again.

"You haven't answered yet, Pam," Jerry reminded her gently.

"You made a joke of me that night, Jerry!"

"A joke? Pam, dear, but I didn't! I couldn't have done such a thing—ever—feeling as I do about you."

"But you did. You—you humiliated me. And I hate you for it! I hate you, Jerry Winthrop!"

"Pam!" Jerry's voice was tense. He was sure now that Pam did know about the bet. Sure that was what she was referring to. He must right that, and immediately. "Do you mean the bet? Edmund's and my bet about you?"

Surely you haven't taken that seriously? Pam, it was just a joke, something—but Pam's voice was breaking in wildly. All of the sturdy Queller temper she had inherited was flaming within her.

"A joke! If your idea of a joke is that low and cheap—"

It was just there the old-fashioned knocker touched the electric bell of the front door. Pam stopped speaking and stood for a moment of indecision. She spoke to Melita, who was coming to answer the door.

"I'll take it, Melita."

She opened the door to see the stony, expressionless face of Lenore Winthrop staring at her without recognition.

"Tell Jerry I want the keys to his car," Lenore said, as if giving an order to a servant.

Jerry, who had recognized Lenore's voice, came to the hall. "Who wants the keys to my car?" he asked of Lenore.

"I do."

"You're not talking to me, Lenore. You don't get any car keys from me."

"So what?" Jerry asked in irony.

"Jerry Winthrop, shut up!" Lenore said fiercely, lunging at her brother.

Furniture Groups Smart in Styling

Shoppers Are No Longer Puzzled by Idea

The mention of "correlated groupings" of furniture no longer brings a puzzled look from shoppers, because they are becoming familiar with this method of combining fabrics and styles that has proved a blessing to housewives who are hesitant about trusting their own taste.

A new interpretation of designs originated in the 18th Century, but adapted to 20th Century requirements, is being shown in a correlated group of upholstered living room pieces. Covered in selected and blended covers, on frames of hard northern maple, the davenport and chairs are informal and livable, yet sophisticated in appearance. The pieces have the smartness demanded for a city apartment and at the same time are informal enough for use in suburban homes.

The group's sofa, wing, lounge and occasional chairs are covered in printed linens, figured tapestries and novelty fabrics.

Horse Speeder Fined

For cruelly flogging his horse to make it run furiously over the Albert Bridge and down Madrid street until it was stopped by a traffic light, James Quinn, driver of a four-wheeled broadwagon, was fined in Summons Court in Belfast, Northern Ireland. Policemen testified that one followed the wild driver on a bicycle until he got a puncture, then another took up the chase.

Gun Crew Sets Mark

For variety of peacetime occupations the gun crew of a minesweeper operating off the south coast of England, holds the record, it is reported in London. The six gunners were a shipmer, a racing tipster, bricklayer, tailor, waiter, and railway worker.

Sukos to Start

Sukos, the Feast of Tabernacles, the Jewish harvest festival, begins on the evening of Sunday, October 5. It recalls throughout the turbulent world the democratic principles inherent in Jerusalem. Known also as the Feast of Booths, Sukos is observed with the building of booths covered with leaves and twigs, outside of the home and synagogue, to commemorate Israel's 40 years of wandering in the desert, when necessity demanded that they live in that type of home. Later the building of these booths took a spiritual significance. They were interpreted as being symbolic of the transitoriness of human life, and the common destiny of all men.

Knights Predict Big Things at Ball With Hudson Band

Dean Hudson, who will bring his orchestra to the Knights of Columbus ball October 10, at the municipal auditorium, through arrangements with the Music Corporation of America, features the sweet tempo type of music throughout all his arrangements. Yet the orchestra has innumerable swing rhythms ready for the faster requests or the jitterbugs, if necessary.

The band is the full ensemble type, featuring the muted brass clarinets. In many sections the orchestra is likened to Tommy Dorsey. Hudson's library is divided into three compartments, sweet, novelty and swing. He has a special musical library for society music, deb parties, private hotel affairs and affairs similar to the Charity Ball.

Hudson, though he confines his activities to singing and conducting, is a former star trumpet player and knows music thoroughly. Every arrangement is supervised by him. He favors highly a great deal of singing along with the actual dance music. Perhaps the most outstanding feature of Dean Hudson's aggregation is the a cappella choir. Since the organization of the orchestra by Dean Hudson, they have been solidly booked throughout the south and have been unable because of these bookings to make many appearances in the east. Only recently, however, they appeared on the bandwagon show, a radio program devoted to new and outstanding orchestras.

Featured soloists with the orchestra are Juanita Simpson and Jack Kimel. Another feature of the orchestra is the Dixie Debs, four beautiful southern girls who have been with the band for some time.

The managers of Dean Hudson's orchestra have predicted that the concert that will precede the entertainment and dance at the auditorium on October 10 will surpass any held at other balls, since the orchestra will employ the full ensemble of the choir section. Along with the orchestra will be a headline stage show.

The first patron list for the ball that appeared in Friday's Freeman is the largest in recent years and all indications point to a record crowd for the 23rd annual ball of the Knights of Columbus.

Fellowship Dinner At Baptist Church

Thursday evening a fellowship dinner was held in the Wurts Street Baptist Church which was marked with addresses by the Rev. Roger K. Powell and the Rev. R. P. Ingersoll, a former pastor of the church. Attorney Floyd W. Powell was toastmaster.

The Rev. Mr. Ingersoll, who is now pastor of the Baptist Church in Rhinebeck, spoke on church unity, urging a harmonious feeling among themselves having at all times the best interests of the church at heart.

The Rev. John A. Wright, pastor of the church, also spoke briefly. He said that the welfare of a church meant sacrifice on the part of each member and above all teamwork, pulling together for the advancement of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Powell, now pastor of the New York Baptist Church, said that one similar and significant note has been expressed by each of the great leaders of the democracies in this present critical period. President Roosevelt in his proclamation of unlimited emergency on May 27, said "I repeat the words of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

"No one among us," said Mr. Powell, "would assume the risk involved in throwing down the gauntlet before Nazi Germany without first consigning our national destiny to God's care. Yet, the terrible truth is that we are a people wholly committed unto God. We must take our church and our religion more seriously if we are to enjoy the guidance and the protection of the Almighty."

The dinner was served by the ladies of the church, and an excellent menu had been prepared.

Musical selections were given by Miss Marion Entrott, accompanied by Miss Vivian Swart, as well as Beverly and June Proper, accompanied by Mrs. J. A. Wright.

Annual production of radios in the U. S. has passed the eight million mark. In 1939, according to factory reports to the Bureau of Census, 8,256,250 complete radio receiving sets were produced compared with 5,843,569 in 1937.

PLANES 'BOMB' BRIDGE IN MANEUVER PRACTICE

Many Nations Put War Aside, Play Up Yanks and Dodgers

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—There's a war afoot but, outside the nations doing the fighting, the war news has to move over these days to make room for the World Series.

DNB and Tass, the official news agencies of Germany and Russia, respectively, are ignoring the series as in the past because there is little understanding of baseball in Europe.

In Japan, where the sport has become popular, the newspapers are receiving the usual running accounts of the series play and box scores from Domei, Japanese news agency.

The Associated Press of Great Britain, and Reuters, British agency, are sending only the final scores to England, mostly for the information of American readers there.

South American readers, however, demand box scores and they are flashed southward by La Prensa Asociada, the Latin American organization of the Associated Press.

Spanish-language papers have been having considerable difficulty with the Brooklyn Dodgers, because there is no Spanish word for "Dodgers." Some papers in South America call them Los Mentrosos (The Liars), and others Los Esquivadores (The Eluders), which is the nearest they get to the Dodgers.

In Mexico, where Pancho Villa postponed his revolution when he was informed by an AP correspondent that it would conflict with the World Series, the interest is intense. Papers there receive not only a running-play-by-play account but a special ball-strike report as well.

The Canadian press is relating to the dominions the same complete service that goes to members of the Associated Press in this country.

NBC and CBS broadcast a 300-400 word summary to Europe and South America as part of their regular short-wave news report.

To Hold Clinics

The Middletown State Homeopathic Hospital will hold a mental clinic in Kingston October 17, in the Board of Health Clinic Rooms, 27 East O'Reilly street, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Patients on parole from the hospital are requested to report as they were assigned. Advice will be given personally by a consultant to the clinic physician about their own condition or that of a relative or friend.

Thumbs Up Texas' Is March of Time Film

"Thumbs Up, Texas!", the latest March of Time film scheduled to open at the Broadway Theatre today will give local moviegoers an opportunity to become acquainted with the biggest, most fabulous state in the U. S.

Portraying Texas and all she stands for more completely and dramatically than any film on the Lone Star State that has hitherto reached the screen, "Thumbs Up, Texas!" reveals in a unique manner the state's varied and extensive natural resources, its military preparations today, and the colorful institutions for which the Lone Star State has long been famous.

While there has recently been a great influx of Texans into Washington to take part in handling the manifold details of national defense, the films shows there has also been a steady flow of young American soldiers and sailors, from all sections of the U. S., into Texas for training. What impresses these men most about Texas—its enterprise and spirit and the great big way that Texans do things—is fully and vividly shown in the film.

Apple Growers Set Up Committee to Push Valley Fruit

tion of information. "We need someone who can tell buyers where and when they can get the fruit they need. This would eliminate a lot of travel for a lot of buyers, get quicker orders and probably better prices," he said.

The growers and storage men were interested in a new marketing technique that Mr. French said was growing in favor.

"Direct store deliveries are cutting handling costs and getting better prices for growers," Mr. French reported. "There is a growing tendency to put the growing industry on a business basis. In a number of areas we have growers who deliver produce directly to A. & P. stores, and if their pack and their delivery schedules are reliable, it works out well."

"The consumer demand for this store door delivery produce increases rapidly, because of the appeal of the freshness of the produce. The grower gets better prices, is compensated for the haulage costs and the customer gets better merchandise."

Mr. Sanderson said his company reports similar results, with the grower being paid more per unit to compensate him for cartage.

E. Stuart Hubbard of Poughkeepsie reported a need this year for a market for exceptionally large McIntosh. He also suggested a committee that would act as a brake on some growers' tendency to sell lower than market conditions warrant.

A plan that would ultimately supply large buyers with up to the minute information on availability of all types of Hudson valley apples was expected to come out of the meeting, Mr. Oxholm said.

fields of chemistry, civil, electrical, chemical, mining and metallurgical, mechanical, agricultural, and sanitary engineering, dentistry, pharmacy, physics, medicine, biology, bacteriology, and geology, Mr. Grant pointed out.

"Without attempting too broad an interpretation of the Selective Service Regulations defining a 'necessary man,' the sub-committee goes beyond those into other fields for the scholars of distinction," he continued. "In doing so, the sub-committee's policy appears to be wholly in line with that set forth by General Hershey's memorandum of last June."

Potentially Necessary

"For example, a student of superior qualities in the field of Middle or East European history might very well be considered as a potentially necessary man in preparation for an activity contributing to the national interest. With knowledge of past and present conditions abroad, such a scholar may be very valuable in government service during the national emergency."

"Similarly, many graduates of high standing in law are recruited for employment in government service or employed by law firms engaged in the organization and operation of industries essential to the national defense program. A shortage of competent lawyers will result if law students with demonstrated ability are taken out."

A clear line of distinction exists between occupational deferment and postponement of induction, Mr. Grant declared. Only students already placed in Class 1A may ask for postponement of induction for good cause, he said.

The following typical situations, according to Mr. Grant, are regarded by the sub-committee as worthy of consideration for postponement of induction: When a student is well along in the semester, is about to fulfill the requirement for a degree, has to take a departmental or state licensing examination within a comparatively short time, is about to complete important research, or is in danger of losing the benefits of a valuable fellowship.

Warm Wave Follows

Much Needed Rain

Much needed rain fell in Kingston on Friday and early this morning. According to the records in the city engineer's office there was a total precipitation of .25 of an inch, of which .24 of an inch fell Friday, and .01 of an inch shortly after midnight this morning.

The rain storm was followed this morning by a warm wave. The lowest temperature recorded Thursday night was 56 degrees, while the highest temperature recorded Friday afternoon while rain was falling was 66 degrees.

During last night as the temperature began rising the lowest point recorded was 67 degrees at the city hall. At noon today it had reached 79 degrees.

U. S. factories produce more than 72 million gross of buttons annually, according to the Census.

Table model radios are the most popular, according to the Census Bureau which reports an annual production in U. S. factories of 6,965,000 table model radio receiving sets and 1,291,000 console-type sets.

The Census Bureau reports the annual production of raw motion picture and camera film at a factory value of $65,600,000.

Pro Prospects Redskins: 'Improved'

By RAY FLAHERTY

Washington Redskins' Coach

Despite the fact that our tackles and blocking backs will be something of question marks, I believe the 1941 Washington Redskins will be an improved team.

We are particularly fortunate at center, with Ki Aldrich, former T. C. U. All-America and Chicago Card, in the fold. Backing Aldrich for the first time since he left the Redskins will be George Smith, back for the first time since he helped win the championship in 1937. Steve Andrack and Bob Titchener will help, too.

Rookies setting the pace are: Ends—Joe Aguirre, St. Mary's (Calif.); Frank Clair, Ohio State, and Sam Goldman, Howard of Alabama; Tackles—Fred Davis, U. of Alabama, and Jim Stuart, U. of Oregon; Guard—Truck Tonnell, San Jose State; Backs—Jack Banta, Southern California; Jack Guthrie, St. Mary's (Calif.); Ken Dow, Oregon State; Cecil Hare, Gonzaga U., and Lee Gentry, Tulsa U.

The backfield should be almost as strong as last year with Sammy Baugh, Dick Todd and others in good shape. Andy Farakas may be a big help.

I look for the Bears to repeat in the West, but the Cards should give the Bears and Green Bay a fight. To me, Brooklyn, New York and the Redskins appear evenly matched and I look for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to be stronger.

Wiltwyck Elects New Officers for 1942 Golf Season

Directors Are Re-Elected at Stockholders' Meeting on Wednesday; Wieber Is Elected President

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, Inc., was held at the club house on Hurley avenue, Wednesday evening. At the meeting the following directors, whose terms of office expired, were re-elected for the three year term: Herbert E. Thomas, William E. Finch, Ray LeFever, W. A. Van Valkenburgh and Joseph Koenig.

Reports of the various officers showed the club had enjoyed the best season of its existence. The treasurer reported all bills paid with a balance on hand. Ed Tongue, chairman of the tournament committee, reported that out of 12 matches with other clubs, the Wiltwyck golfers had won 10 and that the number participating in the various inter-club matches was larger than any previous year.

Ray LeFever, chairman of the general committee, reported that many improvements had been made during the year among which was the sodding of all tees and that during the fall the ladies' tees all would be improved. Richard Dawe, chairman of the house committee, stated that money was being raised to greatly improve the locker room and showers.

At the organization meeting of the directors held after the annual meeting, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Henry E. Wieber, president; Herbert E. Thomas, vice president; William P. Glass, secretary; Dwight McEntee, treasurer. The directors commended the work of Tommy Danaher. They voted unanimously to extend him an invitation to renew his contract with the club for next year.

Luedtke Submits Report On Legion Boys' State

Reports from 32 departments participating in Boys' State shows that more than 25,000 have enrolled in this youth training center in the summer.

The report on Boys' State by one of Kingston's high school youths, Edward J. Luedtke, Jr., of 15 Staples street, participant, brings to light a youth program filled with inspirational activity. His report covering 12 pages of typewritten data and personal impressions, characterizes in intimate detail his sojourn through Boys' State. He speaks of the practical manner in which the obligations and duties of citizenship have been presented, the mythical "49th state" in which the boys have learned the mechanics of the American form of self government from the ground up, of the camp fires and of the good all-around sportsmanship.

Edward J. Luedtke, Jr., is a senior in Kingston High School, an enviable member of its football team, a three-letter man, vice president of Hi-Y, and president of the athletic association.

His report has been accepted with praise by Commander Stanley H. Dempsey and filed.

Wilbur Dodgers Idle

The Wilbur Dodgers will be idle Sunday afternoon as most of the players are expected to attend the World Series game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Yankees. The game is scheduled for October 10.

Historic Mill Still Good After Working 270 Years

DENTON, MD. — A 270-year-old mill which produced meat for General Washington's army still is in use today.

According to tradition, old Murray's mill near Denton is 270 years old, and meat from the building was sent to the Continental army at Valley Forge.

Table model radios are the most popular, according to the Census Bureau which reports an annual production in U. S. factories of 6,965,000 table model radio receiving sets and 1,291,000 console-type sets.

The Census Bureau reports the annual production of raw motion picture and camera film at a factory value of $65,600,000.

WARSHIPS TIED UP IN BOSTON NAVY YARD

Two British navy vessels crowd the end of one of the big piers in the Boston navy yard—the guns of the cruiser Newcastle and part of the deck appear in the foreground, while the destroyer Firedrake is tied up alongside the dock. In the background looms the gray side of an unidentified U. S. troop ship.

Knights to Hear Talk by 'G' Man

Special Agent C. A. Tyner to Tell of Work

At the regular meeting of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, to be held at the club rooms Monday, October 6, Special Agent Charles A. Tyner of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, will give a lecture on the subject "Today's FBI."

Mr. Tyner operates out of the New York office and is considered an "ace" man in the department, well qualified to inform his listeners of the work and problems of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today.

Lecturer Andrew T. Gilday of the local council of the Knights today stated that he has been trying to get Mr. Tyner to come to Kingston for some time and it was only by a fortunate break in his schedule that he was able to make the trip to Kingston to appear on this occasion.

Special Agent Tyner will speak after the business of the meeting has been disposed of, and seating arrangements have been made to take care of the large crowd which will attend.

American women annually add more than 160 million dollars worth of fur garments to their wardrobes. Factories reported to the Census Bureau that last year's production of fur coats and longer than hip length numbered 1,157,500 valued at $97,915,000, and other fur products valued at $58,241,000.

What? No Buttons? Logan, O. (CP)—A confectioner bought a used automobile and paid for it with a dollar bill, 6,600 nickels and 1,900 pennies—totaling $350.

HERE at last are elastic stockings you won't mind wearing. They are so sheer they look like fine silk hose, and can be worn unnoticed.
And the lighter Laster yarns give you cool comfort, yet you get full support, too. And they can be washed frequently without losing their shape. Ask

FOR WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 11

by

Tom MacPherson

Now take us back New Yorkers. For years
"they" drummed into us that a Stradivarius was
THE violin.

So, on the strength of this, plus a stickful in the tabloid, we moseyed up to Carnegie Hall one day.
The tabloid item was to the effect that several Strads were to be used in one concert.

We could have traveled via Eighth Avenue and dropped into a hock shop at any corner to paw
any of a dozen fiddles.
We could have detoured
to Wurlitzer's on 42nd Street and gandered at hundreds of 'em. But no.
We went dutifully up to Carnegie, meekly allowed ourselves to be packed twelve deep, and gawked
at an armoured buggy unloading several—not just one—several Stradys.

Those inanimate wizards of melody—Stradi-variuses! So great is their magic, not one of us doubted but that he could whip out music
sweet enough to charm
the ex-marines guarding them. You see, it was all in the violin; not the violinist. Of course you had only to get the Strady humming before those ex-marines unlim-bered the artillery.

But we didn't try. And before long the show was over, leaving us 25 minutes to get some lunch and back to the grind.

"They" told us Strady was tops, and now we had seen Strady. Well, as a fiddle, it did not look different from the one on which Uncle
Andy used to squeak out "The Blue Danube."
However, since "they" say it is so, I guess
Strady could make the Danube run smoother and bluer.

Well, "The Family Hour" people will feature

Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, who return with the same old gang to the same old station at the same old time: WEAF at 7:00 Sunday.

a $40,000 Stradivarius on their program Sunday. We'll be listening.

Besides Jack Benny, other returnees this week are: "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" to WEAF Sunday at 10:30. . . Burns and Allen at 7:30 Tuesday, WEAF. . . "Meet Mister Meek" to WABC Wednesday at 7:30. . . The
Helen Hayes Theatre to WABC on Sunday,
8:00.

Hopkins Awaits Helicopter; Would Quit Peak by Air

Sundance, Wyo., Oct. 4 (AP)—A helicopter was sought today to rescue George Hopkins, a sea-the-world adventurer and self-styled parachuting champion, from his own little world atop Devil's Tower.

The 30-year-old former instructor for the R.A.F. would like nothing better after three nights on his roost in the Wyoming sky than to leave it the way he arrived—by air.

The man he won't bet from by chuting to the flat circle of rock from a plane last Wednesday morning, Early Brockelsby of Rapid City, S. D., asked the Sikorsky Company at Los Angeles yesterday to send a helicopter, a vertical rising plane, to the pinnacle in northeastern Wyoming.

Hopkins' sky island is less than 300 feet in diameter, but Brockelsby said he thought a helicopter could land and take off on it.

Two Rocky Mountain National Park rangers who struggled a third of the way up the 1280-foot tower yesterday and descended at nightfall, accepted an offer of Dick Durrance, Alta, Utah, ski professional and former Dartmouth ski star who scaled the peak in 1938, to help them extract Hopkins from his predicament. The rangers are Ernest Field and Warren Correll.

They plan to edge their way to the top today, spend tonight with the parachutist and help him descend tomorrow.

Hopkins spent his third night last night atop the spire, higher than any of New York's skyscrapers. He had an army tent and plenty of provisions, dropped by planes.

Here is a small section of the many hundreds who were waiting at the city hall for the arrival of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd yesterday afternoon. The Admiral was given the keys to the city by Mayor C. J. Heiselman and then went directly to the municipal auditorium where he lectured on his experiences at the South Pole and "Little America" to an estimated audience of more than 2,500 school children. On the Admiral's left is Manuel Reina, president of the local Lions Club, who sponsored the lectures, and on his right is the Rev. Maurice Venno, chairman of the reception committee.

such as copper and silver and that there are other commercial possibilities of the ice-covered continent.

Convincing evidence was also found by men of the expeditions to indicate that the region had once been warm enough to allow for life such as is found in other zones of the earth. There are enormous coal deposits there, said the explorer, and the men came upon stumps of trees indicating that vegetation once was possible.

Listed as a major discovery, however, is the fact that the region now giving the appearance of a vast tract of ice and snow is a continent with an estimated area of 5,000,000 square miles. This fact, explained the explorer, was derived at mainly through the discovery of a range of mountains near the south pole.

The men were forced to endure hardships and to face danger on each of the expeditions, he said, and he told of his own six-months lonely vigil down there which almost resulted in his death by asphyxiation from the fumes of his stove. His men, stationed 130 miles away arrived in time to save his life, but he remained in critical condition for two months before regaining his health.

One great danger which faced the men at all times were deep crevasses in the vast ice areas. This threat to the lives of the men were generally hidden from view by thin layers of ice or snow and a step through meant a deep plunge hundreds of feet to an icy grave. This danger was greater on the first expedition, and although it still existed on the others, the men became more watchful in their journeys through the region. Admiral Byrd arrived in Rhinecliff at about noon yesterday and was met at the ferry in the city by a delegation of officers from the local Lions Club.

Included in the welcoming party were Manuel Reina, president of the club, Alderman Walter Donnanuma, the Rev. Maurice Venno, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, and Charles E. Gradwell, a former president of the club.

Is Guest at Luncheon

From the ferry Admiral Byrd was driven to the Governor Clinton Hotel where he was guest at a luncheon. At 2:45 o'clock a parade started from the hotel to Clinton avenue, North Front and Wall streets and then back down to Broadway.

The local American Legion Drum Corps headed the parade and a unit of local sea scouts also took part. At the city hall Admiral Byrd was officially greeted by Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman and given the key to the city.

After the explorer had finished his lecture at the auditorium in the afternoon he was the guest of the mayor at his home for a short party in his honor. Following the party he gave a brief talk at the local radio station and then was guest of the Lions Club at a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel. In the evening a reception was held at the hotel to which wives and friends of the members of the Lions Club were invited.

Alderman Donnanuma opened the lecture program by introducing Manual Reina, president of the Lions Club, who in turn introduced Admiral Byrd. In both of his talks, the explorer, who had been called into active service by President Roosevelt, took a few moments to urge cooperation of his listeners in aiding national defense.

Russian war lasted so long? The answer: "I made a mistake and did not realize how thoroughly the Russians had prepared to destroy us. But everything has gone according to plan and we have at last struck the telling blow."

The question: "Can we believe the high command?" The answer: "Yes—look at the record of victories." The question: "Can we cope with America's fabulous industrial strength and wealth?" The reply: "We have enough guns piled up to beat anybody. Those fellows merely talk of spending billions, making wonder planes, invincible tanks. We work to deliver the goods."

Add to that a vehement assurance that the Germans are super-soldiers and super-people and that Russians are "animals" and a surprisingly blunt boast that the rest of the continent is laboring in the role of servant to the German master; there you have Hitler's latest speech. It is permissible to wonder how that last declaration: "We place the whole continent in the service of this struggle" went down with the conquered people who today are struggling to their knees and striking back with their bare hands at Germany from Brittany to the Ukraine.

Today, however, one has a rare opportunity to turn away from Hitler, and the hates of Europe and to look for a moment on a developing indication that mercy and human honor have not been completely demolished overseas by the conflict of titans. It is still possible to stop the tide of slaughter on the English channel battleground, long enough for 3,000 wounded German and British prisoners to cross the watery line of battle on their way home, then there must be some hope for the future of the European. Millions will pray with the families of the wounded men that this humane operation goes through, despite today's delay. There is no better news in war than the word: "He's coming home!"

Hormones Successful in High Proportion of Cases

The average individual feels, as Ponce de Leon doubtless felt, considerable reluctance to enter that period in life when athletics, eating, and romance lack the zest they once had. It is natural and normal to feel that way. But the scientist must look beyond personal reactions, to the social consequences of the great increase in the army of the old—the more so since science is largely responsible for the survival of so many people into old age.

Actual beginnings have been made, through applications of certain types of hormones or gland extracts. Since high level of accomplishment, in both physical and mental work, is usually found in men and women in early sexual maturity, physicians turned first to the sex hormones.

The treatment has been successful in a high proportion of cases. Middle-aged men and women have regained, at least temporarily, powers of decision and execution that had begun to slip away. In some instances, they even astonished themselves (and their neighbors) by becoming parents well after the "normal" age for that sort of thing!

Russians Make Heavy Attacks

southern Asia had come. With Saigon under control, the Japanese have a good jumping-off place for a possible move against the huge British base at Singapore.

There was more trouble for the Germans in occupied Europe, reports said.

The Norwegian telegraph news agency told of a battle between Norwegians and Germans at Steinkjer, near Trondheim, which it said began when some Norwegians left a cafe as the Germans entered and turned on a Nazi broadcast. The agency said the Germans pursued the Norwegians and that fighting spread through the whole town before it was stopped.

Executions Are Threatened At the same time the German commander of occupied France and Belgium warned that Belgians and Frenchmen attempting to join the armed forces of a nation at war with Germany or to induce war with Germany would be executed.

Berlin sources reported a number of new executions in Bohemia and Moravia of persons convicted of plotting against German rule. Reinhard Heydrich, German protector of Bohemia and Moravia, was in Berlin yesterday and was believed to have reported personally to Adolf Hitler on the situation.

The British radio said 180 persons had been openly executed in Poland in the past three months but that sabotage against Germans there was continuing.

The dramatic exchange of wounded prisoners between Britain and Germany was still postponed because, the British announced, the Germans demanded return of all of certain categories of captives, regardless of whether their numbers exactly matched the 1,500 wounded Britons scheduled for transfer to England. The Germans contended the Geneva convention provided for exchange of all prisoners medically unfit for further military service without reference to numbers. The 1,500 Germans remained aboard ships at the English Channel port of Newhaven.

Automobile Mishaps Reported to Police

Shortly after 10 o'clock Friday evening automobiles operated by George Gottelli of this city and Dominick Altera of Route 3, Kingston, collided at the intersection of Green street and Lucas avenue. Both cars were damaged but no personal injuries were reported to the police.

At 7:30 o'clock last night the police department received a report that an automobile was down an embankment at South Wall street and Wilbur avenue. Officers Schoonmaker and Taylor in one of the radio cars investigated and reported that the car was owned by Edward Fischang of 70 Pine Grove avenue. No one was reported injured.

Barber's Pole Burns A barber's pole on fire caused a call to the fire department on Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The pole, electrically lighted, stands in front of Mickey's Beauty and Barber Shop, 50 North Front street. The fire was caused by a short circuit. This morning shortly after 11 o'clock the fire department was called out by a chimney fire at 76 German street.

Pulaski Memorial Parade Sunday Local Resident Will Take Part in Event

Members of the local Immaculate Conception parish will take part in the annual Casimir Pulaski Memorial Day Parade in New York city Sunday afternoon which will be held on Fifth avenue.

This event is held annually to commemorate the great Polish revolution hero who died for the United States in the battle at Savannah, Ga. He is known as the "Father of the Cavalry."

Many thousands are expected to parade Sunday, Americans and Poles of American descent. The parade itself will begin at 1 o'clock at 14th street and will continue until the late evening. Representatives from all the neighboring states will attend, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland and other New England states.

The parishoners of the Immaculate Conception Church will take part in this parade. Buses will leave the church following the 8 o'clock Mass. The Immaculate Conception Boy Scout Troop No. 10 will take part in the parade. They will form at 17th street and Fifth avenue at 3 o'clock. They will be reviewed by city and state officials as well as church officials. Archbishop Spellman and other notables will be at the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral to review them.

Other delegates from the local Polish Church will be represented by the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Mary Society, Ladies' Holy Rosary Society, the Men's Holy Name Society and the Young Ladies' Children of Mary Society. They will march with the members of St. Joseph's Church of Poughkeepsie in the Hudson valley division.

Following the mammoth parade a demonstration will be held at Madison Square Garden. Jan Kiepura will sing, Eddie Cantor will entertain and Wendell L. Willkie, presidential candidate of the last election, will speak to the delegates at the Garden. Gen. Duck gates at the Garden.

Casimir Hudela has been helpful in making arrangements for the Immaculate Conception's part in this parade, along with the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski.

Amended Order Copy Is Received On Local Crossing

Mayor C. J. Heiselman today received a copy of an amended order in the proposed elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad which has just been made by the State Public Service Commission.

The amended order provides that the New York Central railroad is ordered to prepare accurate descriptions and maps of lands and easement rights as shown in the elimination order adopted by the commission on September 9, of this year.

The amended order also directs the State Department of Public Works to prepare an estimate as to the costs of the lands and easements needed in the elimination, and that such estimates are to be filed with the public service commission for approval.

Mayor Heiselman in discussing the amended order said that it meant that representatives of the State Department of Public Works would shortly visit interested property owners to negotiate for purchase prices of the real estate to be taken in the proposed elimination.

Lands needed to be taken include both sides of Broadway and for the proposed new streets that will be built under the elimination program.

Senators Predict Stalin Won't Give Religious Liberty

Washington, Oct. 4 (AP)—President Roosevelt's announcement that he had instructed W. Averell Harriman to take up with the Soviet government the question of Russian religious freedom brought predictions from two senators today there would be no liberty of worship in that country so long as the Stalin regime remains in power.

The two—Smith (D., S. C.) and Nye (R., N. D.)—told reporters that in their opinion little would come of Harriman's conversations. The President did not detail his instructions to Harriman, who is head of the American aid-to-Russia delegation, and he declined to say whether Myron C. Taylor his special representative to the Vatican, had discussed the issue with Pope Pius XII.

Smith, dean of the Senate and frequent opponent of administration policies, remarked that "Harriman's job seems to be to try to get Stalin to join the church so we can call him brother. Stalin can't very well join something he's been trying to burn down, and I don't think Harriman will have much success."

"The whole thing is just an effort to offset the loss of freedom of religion in the conference between the President and Prime Minister Churchill at sea," declared Nye. "Although both the President and Churchill late reaffirmed that freedom in their own countries, they let it out of their joint statement out of consideration for Stalin."

Asked yesterday whether his instructions to Harriman were an initial step in providing the "four freedoms" he has urged for all peoples, Mr. Roosevelt said that his own record has been consistent in support of freedom of worship.

Work is progressing rapidly on a new steel shed on the Hutton Brick Yard on North street that will introduce a new method of burning and loading brick to this area. There are five other sheds of this type now in operation in other parts of the country. All of the material needed for the building is now at the yard and it is expected to be completed some time during the winter.
